Course Description

This course will allow to students to explore/research new technologies in the IT world, make use of the technologies, and present/demonstrate the technology to their classmates in a classroom setting.

Prerequisite: CIS 130, CIS 196

Outcomes

Course Learning Outcomes

- Utilize documentation for new frameworks, languages, and technologies to implement solutions with tools and concepts not explored in other degree courses.
- Present findings and explain how to utilize tools to a technical audience.

Additional Outcomes

Technical Skills

- Students will explore new technologies.
- Students will diagnose and fix problems in their applications in a self guided manner.
- Students will research solutions to problems.

Critical Thinking

- Students will assess and select technologies based on their strengths and weaknesses.

Professionalism

- Students will collaborate with a group on project requirements.
- Students will document their research and progress on assignments.

Deliverables

Project

Students will create 4 projects during the 16 week duration of the course. Each project is given 4 weeks and must be approved by the instructor.

Projects will be presented to demonstrate what a student learned and what they built with that knowledge. Grading will look for the depth of research completed, technical skill with the technology, and ability to demonstrate knowledge to others.

Students must meet the following requirements within their projects:

- One or more group projects
- One or more solo projects
- One or more projects exploring a new language
 - (e.g. Rust, Lisp, Cobol, C++, etc)
- One or more projects exploring a new framework or design philosophy.
 - (e.g. Angular, Flask, Game Dev, AI/LLM app, etc.)

These requirements can be met in any order, and may stack. For example, if your first project is a group project exploring a new framework in a new language, you'll need to complete a solo project, and then the other two projects are free-spaces.

Status Report

Weekly status reports will be submitted to track attendance. Students are expected to give an update on their current project each week, and if no progress is made a plan should be formulated for the next week.

The instructor will review and respond to any status reports as applicable. Students are encouraged to reach out to the instructor at any time for guidance on how to explore topics and overcome challenges.

Institutional Policies

Course Subject to Change

The syllabus is a statement of intent and schedule of topics, activities, assessments, and requirements as well as an overall road map to ensure students will achieve both the course learning objectives and the program-level learning objectives.

The scheduled educational activities are subject to change with reasonable advance notice to students by either the instructor or academic administration. The grading and attendance policies are not subject to change once posted.

During campus closures, the dynamic nature of our learning environment supports the possibility of remote learning days. In such instances, instructors will demonstrate flexibility, providing necessary support to ensure students can actively engage in coursework while accommodating individual circumstances. Clear communication and understanding will be prioritized to maintain the quality of education.

Students wishing to appeal changes to a course syllabus must first do so in writing to their instructor. If a successful resolution is not achieved after submitting the written appeal, the student has the option to file a written appeal to the appropriate Associate Dean of Curriculum and Instruction or Dean of Curriculum and Instruction. If the second level appeal does not result in a resolution, the student can submit a final appeal to the Vice President of Academic Affairs. The review and final decision of the Vice President of Academic Affairs is final and not subject to appeal.

Attendance

Administrative Withdraw for Non-Attendance

Students are expected to attend all sessions of courses for which they are enrolled. Absences do not excuse the student from meeting course requirements. Each instructor will evaluate the student's progress to determine how to handle outstanding assignments and assessments. Students attending 16 week courses who have a record of zero attendance for fourteen (14) calendar days will be administratively withdrawn from the course(s) the absence is occurring, resulting in a grade of "W" for the course. Students attending courses of less than a 16 week duration, who have a record of zero attendance for seven (7) calendar days will be administratively withdrawn. Students who receive financial aid may have their financial aid status affected. More information is located in the Southeast Tech Catalog (<https://catalog.southeasttech.edu/index.php>):

Course Recording Statement

Delivery of some courses at STC allows flexible participation options for students in time and location. Courses may be made available to properly enrolled students who are not physically in the classroom, and/or a time delayed recording made available to all properly enrolled students. In addition to instructional content, remote delivery may include capture of all classroom audio and visual happenings during designated class times, including that of students who may be part of the class, but who are not physically in the classroom. By remaining in classes capturing audio and visual happenings, you are agreeing to this statement.

Sexual Misconduct

Southeast Tech is committed to providing a learning and working environment that emphasizes the dignity and worth of every member of its community, free from discriminatory conduct. Sexual harassment in any form or context is contrary to this commitment and will not be tolerated. Sexual harassment subverts the mission and the work of Southeast Tech and can threaten the career, educational experience, and well-being of students, faculty, and staff.

Southeast Tech recognizes that sexual harassment includes harassment based on gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression and may occur regardless of the formal position or status of each person involved. Sexual harassment is especially offensive, however, when it occurs in relationship between an instructor and student or between supervisor and subordinate. In those situations, sexual harassment exploits unfairly the power inherent in the position of the faculty member or supervisor.

Sexual harassment also constitutes a form of sexual discrimination that is illegal under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Elementary/Secondary Education Act of 1972, as amended, and state law. Southeast Tech also recognizes that sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking may also be considered sexual harassment.

Students should immediately report any form of sexual misconduct to their instructor or the Title IX Coordinator at Southeast Technical College, Jim Larson: Jim.Larson@southeasttech.edu. 605-367-5681.
